Subject: Reaching out with question on Joliet and Amazon's Ring Neighbors program

Hello,

I am a technology reporter for CNET, and I'm working on a story regarding Amazon Ring and the Neighbor program that police departments across the country have been joining.

At the International Association of Chiefs of Police Technology conference today, representatives from the Chandler Police department said that it received 25 free cameras from Ring for joining the program -- and was offered a free camera for each person in the community who signed up for the app.

I wanted to see if this was the same for Joliet's police department?

I'm also hoping to set up an interview to see how officers have been using the Neighbors app to protect their community. Please let me know if you'd be interested in talking. Thank you!

Subject: Reaching out with question on Joliet and Amazon's Ring Neighbors program

Hello,

I am a technology reporter for CNET, and I'm working on a story regarding Amazon Ring and the Neighbor program that police departments across the country have been joining.

At the International Association of Chiefs of Police Technology conference today, representatives from the Chandler Police department said that it received 25 free cameras from Ring for joining the program -- and was offered a free camera for each person in the community who signed up for the app.

I wanted to see if this was the same for Joliet's police department?

I'm also hoping to set up an interview to see how officers have been using the Neighbors app to protect their community. Please let me know if you'd be interested in talking. Thank you!

Thanks, Chris.

As we just discussed on the phone, you can always contact our PR Coordinator, [redacted]@ring.com) anytime something media related comes up. Please just be sure to CC me on those emails.

Please let me know once you track down a few others within the department that'll take ownership of the engagement on Portal. I'd love to set up a quick call with them.

> I am a technology reporter for CNET, and I'm working on a story regarding Amazon Ring and the Neighbor program that police departments across the country have been joining.
> At the International Association of Chiefs of Police Technology conference today, representatives from the Chandler Police department said that it received 25 free cameras from Ring for joining the program -- and was offered a free camera for each person in the community who signed up for the app.

I wanted to see if this was the same for Joliet's police department?

I'm also hoping to set up an interview to see how officers have been using the Neighbors app to protect their community. Please let me know if you'd be interested in talking. Thank you!
